

IONEL PETROI

BIOGRAPHY

A student of the unlikely trinity of accordion, piano and double bass, Ionel Petroi has become a prolific composer who comfortably moves between the classical and film music worlds.

Born in the former Yugoslavia of Rumanian parents, Ionel is a citizen of France. Given an accordion by his grandfather at the age of six, he toured Serbia, playing in his grandfather's folk band. This cherished experience provided him with an undisputable knowledge and love for improvisation, performing and learning about his varied audiences—all this, as a young boy!

Ionel went on to study piano, double bass and conducting at the Conservatory of Belgrade, where he majored in composition, earning both bachelor and master degrees. [His master degree is the equivalent of a doctorate in France.] During this time, he played professionally, touring European cities with the prestigious chamber orchestra “Dusan Skovran” of Belgrade, as well as becoming a well-known jazz pianist, playing numerous concerts.

After receiving the First Prize in Composition at the Belgrade Conservatory, he relocated to Paris, where he continued his studies at the Conservatoire National Supérieur de Musique, where again, he was the recipient of the Premier Prix in Composition. At the Conservatoire, Ionel studied with many great composers, including Marius Constant, Claude Ballif, Olivier Messiaen, Iannis Xenakis, Pierre Boulez, among others.

Upon receiving the Premier Prix in Paris, he was personally invited by György Ligeti to attend his two-week composition workshop in Szombathely, Hungary. Several years later, Ionel was invited to become Composer-in-Residence at the Djerrasi Foundation in San Francisco, where he produced concerts, composed and oversaw the month-long composition workshops. The following year, he was a special guest composer at the Other Minds Contemporary Music Festival.

Ionel's work is published by Universal Music Publishing MGB France-Durand, Ricordi, Salabert and IBOX, and is continually broadcast internationally on radio and television. He has written more than 40 orchestral, chamber, ballet, opera and instrumental ensemble works.

However, it was during his years in Paris that Ionel elected to study film scoring at Ecole Normal, under the tutelage of one of the great film composers, Laurent Petigirard. Later, he continued his studies at the Institut de Recherche et Coordination Acoustique /Musique (IRCAM), learning new technologies and pursuing innovative ways of creating fresh sounds, interesting forms and, finally, scoring films.

Residing in New York, Ionel continues his work in film music, having scored and provided music most recently for Fancy pants (Joshua Russell, dir.), The Hindenburg Omen (Frederic Colier, dir.) and Burning Man (Patrick Morrell, dir.), among others.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF MR. PETROI'S WORK

“Ionel’s score elevated the entire narrative, building layers of story with instruments and notes. Ionel’s gentle optimism and ingenious critical thinking made the arduous process of creative excellence feel less like a terrifying journey into a hurricane and more like a wild romp through puddles in a rainstorm.

“Without Ionel Petroi, I’m absolutely convinced that Fancypants would be half the movie it is today.

“Ionel’s determined creativity and unbridled passion for excellence would be impossible to work with in any other person -- but in Ionel, there is remarkable balance. In him is a rare blend of humility, confidence, and creative genius. He’s absolutely wonderful to work with.”—Joshua Russell, dir. (Fancypants, Dog Jack, The Outlaws)

“Ionel Petroi composes works in the vein of ‘music relative,’ which follows the rhythmic patterns worthy of Stravinsky’s.”—Anne Rey, Le Monde.
